From the Palette

Spring 2019

One of the things I love about living near Spokane, Washington, is that we have four seasons. Each has its charms, but I appreciate the beauty and wildlife of spring the most. As vegetation greens and flowers start to bloom, the hummingbirds return, tom turkeys strut in our yard, pileated woodpeckers and ruffed grouse can be heard in the woods, and each blade of wild grass seems to sing with new life.

Of all the birds that rejoin us in the spring, my childhood favorite, the goldfinch, is one that still holds a special place in my heart. I hope your spring is bringing you the special joys of the season.
